

In 2008, local children's author Diana Tuorto released two middle-grade novels told from a horse's point of view. Proceeds have gone on to benefit various animal rescues and handicapped riding centers.

Luck of the Draw ($15) is the story of an unsuccessful racehorse searching for his life's purpose, and Janie's New Legs ($12) chronicles a special friendship between a paralyzed girl and a pony saved from neglect. Discounts are available on orders of three books or more when ordering through the author.
